

Creating healthy and safe workplaces together

As you know, having an employee off work because of injury can have a big impact on your business. Having a healthy and safe workplace for everybody is really important. It also affects your levy.

This year ACC has been meeting with over 500 businesses, stakeholder groups and employees to identify better ways to help have healthier and safer workplaces. We've learnt more about your current realities, key needs and how we can do things better.

Several months ago, we shared with you what we learnt. We've used these learnings to help shape new products and services.

Now, we'd like to see whether we're on the right track. Take a look and provide feedback on our initial thinking at shapeyouracc.co.nz/workplace-incentives

There will be a further opportunity to provide input when we share our more detailed product and service thinking, starting in March, 2018. We'll be back in touch to let you know when this is happening.

Co-investment grant trial:

Through our conversations with businesses, we've also learnt more about the barriers that can get in the way of making health and safety improvements. So as part of our commitment to helping businesses more effectively, we're trialling a new approach to reduce these barriers. The trial includes a capped 50% co-investment grant towards the purchase of approved training and equipment solutions.

Our intention is to start rolling out this approach in 2018. For more information about the trial and next steps, go to acc.co.nz/co-investment-trial
